
Lab: 0

Google Docs

This activity will be a little bit free-form. You'll work in small teams to produce a Google Doc that introduces the team members.

1. One team member will create the doc and share it with the others.
2. Each team member will add a brief section to the document about themselves. These sections should contain pictures. Try to think of some entertaining “fun facts” about yourselves. (It would be sad if every entry went “Hi everyone, my name is Kal-El and I’m a Computer Science major from Waterbury.”)
3. Each team member must make a comment on, or suggest an edit to every other team member’s section.
4. The relevant team members will accept or reject the edits and do something about the comments (or not...)
5. Share your final docs with me.